

KANDU'S

WAND

EXPLOSION

CREATED BY JEF EATON AND DON ARTHUR

A really funny gag to add to any kid show!

With the help of an assistant on stage, a small box is shown full of small wands. You explain that it's always good to have plenty of magic wands for your show.

As you are holding the box, one of the wands starts slowly creeping up out of the box (like the Silver Sceptre.)

You push it back down, and it rises again. This is under your control at all times.

You explain to the helper that there is a magic spell that will turn off the magic in the wands so the wands will sit still. You have the helper yell the spell and all of the wands suddenly explode out of the cup onto the floor.

Oh no! I must have given you the wrong magic spell.

Now as the assistant helps you pick up the wands as you put them back, one keeps falling out of the bottom so you tell him or her that "You missed one."

When he hands it back to you another falls out of the bottom. This is a very funny bit!

When all of the wands are placed into the box, one is chosen by the child to help do the trick (of your choice) and is presented the wand to keep for doing such a good job.

Comes complete with custom built PVC box
the rising gimmick the explosion gimmick
the drop through gimmick 18 mini plastic wands
and full instructions
